

Dr. Joseph M. Still, Jr. is the founder of the Southeastern Firefighters' Burn Foundation, fulfilling his dream of providing a retreat for family members of burn patients.

Dr. Still has dedicated his entire professional life to improvements in the treatment of burn patients. As founder of the Joseph M. Still Burn Center at Doctors Hospital in Augusta, he teamed with the hospital in 1978 to build one of the world's leading treatment facilities for burn victims.

A Charlotte, NC native, Dr. Still received his Bachelor of Arts Degree in Biology and Chemistry at Shorter College in Rome Georgia and then earned his medical degree in 1965 from The Medical College of Georgia. He completed his residencies at Duke University in 1973.

Dr. Still's medical training has included residencies and fellowships in general, plastic, and hand surgery. He is board certified by the American Boards of Surgery and Plastic Surgery. He is the author of numerous medical articles published throughout the United States as well as internationally.

Dr. Still and his wife, Sue, have ten children and eighteen grandchildren. They raise exotic birds, enjoy traveling the world as time allows, and annual trips with all of their children.
